From Tuesday February 8, to Saturday February 12, 1763.

Moscow, January 6, N. S.
TH E Tartars have made some Incursions into the Borders; but we do not hear, that any Turks were with them; or that it is considered here as a Matter of any great Consequence. The Great Duke was at Chappel Yesterday; and is appointed High Admiral in the Room of Prince Galitzin, who has resigned on account of his great Age.

Moscow, January 10, N. S. The Great Duke is perfectly recovered of his late Illness. And this Day the Earl of Buckinghamshire, the British Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary, had his First Audience of his Imperial Highness.

Warsaw, January 19. The Court are sending to Mittaw the Castellain Lipska, to make Representations to the States of Courland, in favour of Prince Charles; and M. de Borck is set out for Moscow upon the same Affair.

It is determined to summon a Senatus Consilium for the approaching Month of February.

Berlin, February 1. Some Days ago, Orders were issued by his Prussian Majesty for the quartering of his Troops in his own Dominions; and the Lodgings for the Officers, that are to be in Garrison here, are actually marked.

They are Repairing the Barracks at Potsdam and other Places; and the King of Prussia is expected here before the Middle of next Month.

From these Circumstances many People here are of Opinion, that Peace is actually concluded between the Empress Queen, the King of Prussia, and the Elector of Saxony, though the Conditions are kept secret.

Hamburgh, February 4. Count de Raab, the Imperial Minister at Hamburgh, set out the 1st Instant for Hildesheim, in order to assist as Commissary, on the Part of the Emperor, at the Election of a Bishop of that Place.

We are informed, that the Mortality among the Horn Cattle in Jutland, and other Parts of the Danish Dominions, has raged to such a Degree, that near Eighty Thousand Head of Cattle have died during the very severe Frost which we have had since Christmas.

Hague, February 4. The first Division of His Britannick Majesty's Troops, consisting of the three Regiments of Horse, three Battalions of Foot Guards, and the Regiments of Hodgson and Barrington, are arrived in the Country of the Generalité, from whence they will be ready to embark whenever the Transports can get to Willemstadt. The second Division, consisting of all the Dragoons, had been obliged to halt for two or three Days; but the Weather is so favourable, that Lieutenant General Conway has ordered them to continue their March; and we hope they will be able to cross the Meuse with as much Success as the Troops which have preceded them. The Thaw is so gentle, that there seems to be no Danger of Inundations to impede the March; but has passed Grave. Elliot's Regiment, which is the last the Ice continues in the Rivers, which renders the Passage of them very difficult.

Hague, February 8. The first Division of the British Troops are safely arrived in their Cantonments near Willemstadt, and the Head of the Second of the second Division, will enter the Province of Guelderland the 12th.

St. James's, February 10.
 This Day Prince Sanseverino Albertini, Envoy Extraordinary from the King of the Two Sicilies, had an Audience of Leave of Her Majesty.

To which he was introduced by the Right Honourable the Lord Viscount Cantalupo, Her Majesty's Vice Chamberlain, and conducted by Stephen Cottrell, Esq; Assistant Master of the Ceremonies.

Leicester House, February 8.
 This Day Baron Kniphausen, Envoy Extraordinary from the King of Prussia, had an Audience of Leave of her Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of Wales.

And afterwards of their Royal Highnesses the Duke of York and Princess Augusta.

To all which he was introduced by Stephen Cottrell, Esq; Assistant Master of the Ceremonies.

St. James's, February 11, 1763.
